

24th October 2018
Perceiving Arctic Change:
Climate, Society
and Sustainability

Franco-German Workshop in the frame of “Perceiving Arctic Change: Climate, Society and Sustainability”

Time: Wednesday, 24 October 2018, 9:00 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.

Location: Alfred-Wegener-Institute Helmholtz Center for Polar and Marine Research, Telegrafenberg,
Gebäude A45S, 14473 Potsdam

“Communicating Arctic knowledge: internal and external perspectives”

This workshop is dedicated to different perspectives of Arctic knowledge and its transfer, bringing together senior and junior researchers with indigenous personalities from the Arctic realm. After an introduction into the work of different actors on this topic, discussion will focus on the importance of multi-perspective approaches to communication about Arctic knowledge. How do indigenous communities perceive Arctic research and the action of scientists in the field? What ethical questions does field work raise? What does co-constructing of knowledge mean? How to reflect internal and external perspectives and cooperation in knowledge transfer?

Registration for workshop planning and questions - please contact renate.treffeisen@awi.de and register latest until 19th October 2018.

Preliminary program:

- 09:00 – 09:10 a.m. Welcome Dr. Klaus Grosfeld (Director REKLIM – regional climate change), Renate Treffeisen (Klimabüro AWI), Prof. Dr. Jan Borm (co-director, Arctic Studies Master UVSQ/Paris-Saclay)
- 09:10 – 09:30 a.m. The EU project Nunataryuk (Leena-Kaisa Viitanen, EU Project Manager, AWI)
- 09:30 – 09:50 a.m. The project BRISK: co-constructing knowledge in Siberia (Dr. Alexandra Lavrillier, UVSQ)
- 09:50 – 10:10 a.m. Traditional indigenous knowledge and research in Siberia (Vyacheslav Shadrin, Chief of the Council of Yukaghir Elders)
- 10:10 – 10:30 a.m. The politics of scientific research in Greenland (Per Rosing-Petersen, Member of Greenland Parliament)
- 10:30 – 11:00 a.m. coffee break
- 11:00 – 12:00 a.m. Workshop in groups: Arctic research, ethics and knowledge transfer (Dr Alexandra Lavrillier, Prof Jan Borm, Dr Renate Treffeisen, Dr Klaus Grosfeld)
- 12:00 – 12:30 p.m. Wrap up of workshops results

